My experience at UniTO

Cesareo Calvo Rigual
Full Professor at Universitat de València - Spain

During my stay in Torino as a Visiting Professor I was assigned for the first time the teaching of a whole subject (in my case relating to two Master Degree Courses: Languages and Modern Literatures and Translation) as well as students’ assessment. This allowed me to get an indepth-knowledge of how Italian universities work.

The relationship with students was of advantage both to them, I believe, and to me; to them because they had the chance to experience a kind of teaching different from the one they are used to; to me because I found myself plunged in a reality somehow different from the one I am used to in my Country.

I got the opportunity to come in touch with several university colleagues and in certain cases to deepen some relationships with colleagues I had already met.

Attending the University libraries was also very useful to me.

Discover more about my activity

Discover the VIII International Convention of Hispanic Lexicography

Read more about Boscán Project