My experience at UniTO

Judith C. Masters
Research Professor of Zoology at the University of Fort Hare, South Africa

I taught a course in Evolutionary Zoology and Laboratory, Laurea Triennale in Scienze Biologiche, which was an exceptional teaching experience for me. The students were interested and challenging, and we learned from one another. I would gladly come back to teach again.

I interacted daily with colleagues in the Department of Life Sciences and Systems Biology, and learned about their research. I attended seminars and presentations and felt in touch with a new and diverse world of research that I had not previously been exposed to, like Alpine biology and aspects of ecological modelling.

My long-term colleagues, Massimiliano Delpero and Marco Gamba, and I discussed ongoing and future collaborations, and we have submitted grant applications for potential future field studies.

I had the privilege to act as co-supervisor of one of the Master's students in the department, who submitted an excellent dissertation, and graduated in my presence. It was a wonderful experience.

I would definitely support an ongoing exchange between our university and the University of Torino.
